This year's crowd enjoyed the vocal talents of Joyce Haug who sang "In God We Still Trust" and Phyllis Holleran who performed "Bang the Drum Slowly". Louise Moneyhon continued the program by speaking about the History of Taps. VFW Post 9535 Chaplain Dick Behymer can be seen above leading those gathered in the benediction. Calling Out Evil

The philosopher who composed Ecclesiastes advises us "Do not be over righteous, neither be over wise, why destroy yourself?" (Ecclesiastes 7:16) Accusing others of wrongdoing, especially when there is any chance that we might be mistaken, is almost always folly, and we are likely to have the lens of criticism focused on us as a result. But, there are times when it is appropriate to be assertive in calling someone out. When someone is mistreating us our "moral alarm bells" are usually loud and clear and we should speak up about it. It may take courage to do so, but it usually prevents a lot of future mistreatment. It's even more important to stand up to bullies and haters when they are picking on someone who is weaker or too timid to stand up for him or herself. Students at Ohio State University and the University of Nebraska recently created web sites intended to "call out" people who posted racist, sexist, or otherwise hateful comments on Twitter and other social media web sites. Courage is central to the moral life because it requires courage to speak up for what is right. But, we should remember also to be circumspect about our criticism. It is often easier to see the speck of dust in your neighbor's eye than the log in your own.

RONALD GENE BLOOM

August 17, 1935 - May 22, 2013

Ronald G. Bloom, local architect and owner with his wife Del Tongret Bloom of Twin Creeks Farm in Augusta, KY, passed away at his home on May 22, 2013 at the age of 77. Mr. Bloom was born in Tulsa, OK and graduated from Oklahoma State University with a BS Degree in Architecture and a Minor in Art.

Architect, that is what Ronald Gene Bloom was, the profession to which he devoted his productive life and rich imagination. It is important in life's journey that we remember and record the paths taken and the tracks laid down by our ancestors. So often they are passed by, obsessed as we are with our own busy lives until too late we realize that the memories are gone, the deeds long forgotten.

In a career that spanned forty years and seven states, Ron designed, directed and sometimes developed high-rise buildings, shopping centers, residential complexes, churches and private homes. It was a complex, innovative and enduring accomplishment that garnered several awards for Ron.

Ron Bloom was also a talented watercolorist who exhibited in local galleries and whose paintings are in several private collections. A lifetime member of the Augusta Art Guild, Ron helped establish the Music Scholarship Award and was honored this year by the Guild, who created "The Perennial Bloom Award" in his honor. He was also a Kentucky Colonel.

A gifted college baseball player, Mr. Bloom was also an avid tennis player and fisherman, and with his wife Del, raised prize-winning Foundation Quarter Horses.

In addition to his wife he is survived by four children, Todd Bloom of Independence, KY, Kelly (Phil) Quihaus, of Raleigh, NC, Chris (Tej) Bloom of Lafayette, CA, Ty (Kay) Bloom of Toledo, OH and five grandchildren.

Ron wanted to give special thanks to his family, friends and colleagues stating "It's been a great ride!"

Thanks for including me on the journey, with much love and affection Del Tongret Bloom & all the critters at Twin Creeks Farm

An open 'Wake' will be held at the farm on Sat. June 1, from 6 p.m. until the cows come home.

Memorials can be donated to The Augusta Art Guild, or to Hospice of Hope, Maysville, Ky.

Looking Back
Tabitha's Tidbits
Compiled by
The Bracken County Historical Society

In 1879 Rev. J. M. Evans led the movement to build the present edifice. These were days of rejoicing and prosperity for the beloved church. The beautiful music, the fine organ, and the intellectual membership all were conducive to the splendid cooperation of the congregation.

In 1882, after the resignation of Rev. Evans, who entered the Evangelistic field, Dr. E. H. Harding of North Carolina was called to the pulpit. Mrs. Harding organized the first Missionary Society, thus inspiring the zeal of the other good women of the church which has never ceased.

In 1889 the two General Assemblies recommended the consolidation of the two Presbyterian Churches of Augusta into one Society to be more efficient and exert a better influence in the community. This union was fully accomplished in 1891 while Rev. F. P. Ramsey was pastor.

In 1894 Mrs. Belle R. Cleveland led a movement which resulted in the organization of the first Presbyterian union of the Women's Missionary Societies in the State of Kentucky. This organization was perfected in a meeting of delegates which occurred in Augusta in April 1894 and Mrs. Cleveland became its first president.

This organization became the Presbyterian Auxiliary, which now exists, this change being accomplished when Mrs. Marion Lauderback of Augusta was President of the Presbyterian organization.

In 1904 Sharon and Augusta churches resolved to separate, dissolving a union in pastoral services which had existed for many years.

During the pastorate of Dr. W. O. Cochran, Mrs. Cochran organized the Women's Bible Class which she continued to teach until God called her to her Heavenly home after which Mrs. John D. McKibben taught the class most acceptably until she, too, entered Eternal Rest.

On Sunday evening, December 1, 1929 the church celebrated the Fiftieth Anniversary of the building of the present church auditorium on Fourth Street near Upper. At this time the new Sunday building was in the course of construction, the building having commenced during the summer of that year. The amount of $15,000 was subscribed for the erection of a brick building about seventy-five feet long, and thirty-five feet wide with a basement for heating facilities and two stories above ground.

Congratulations are extended to our graduates whose successes we celebrated this past Sunday. Eighth grade graduates were Austin Crawford, Katie Emmons, Justin Evans, Macy Jefferson and Steve Milbourn; Allison Tobis and Grant Crawford are now college bound and our lone college graduate was Hannah Jefferson with a Doctorate in Physical Therapy. May God bless these young people as they pursue further education and careers!

April Gray, a close friend of ours, and her daughter visited with APC on Sunday, as Kay and I were on our much anticipated Gaither Weekend in Gatlinburg! We spent hours upon hours listening to annotated and spirit-filled music and testimonies! It was such a time of joy and refreshing for Kay and I.

As before, April was such a blessing in word and song. Her message was about the heritage we leave for those coming behind us. She spoke how some find great treasure in material things that can rust and corrode, but April told of the Christian heritage left to her by her grandmother, that meant more to her than any money could ever buy.

Our attendance was down some as several were out of town for the Memorial Day weekend. Millie Bush was the liturgist, Susie Hargett led the singing, and Jillian White did the powerpoint. Shelby England did children's church.

Title : Hank the Cowdog

– Moonlight Madness

Written by: John Erickson

Reviewed by: Noah Emery

If you like action and mystery, then this book for you. The main characters of the book are : Loper – the owner of the ranch and Hank's master; Slim – the ranch hand; and Hank, cow-dog on the ranch. Hank has also made himself "Head of Ranch Security." In this book Hank is riding in the truck with Slim when he sees Buster and Muggs' gang on the ranch property. After the gang leaves, Hank and Slim found what they were barking at. A baby raccoon! Hank remembered seeing a dead coon on the road on their way to the field to check the cows. He figured that it was the baby's mama, so Slim brought the coon back to Loper's house and built him a cage and they named him Eddy. That coon has a few tricks up his sleeve to get out of his cage. One time Eddy tells Hank that the cage is an elevator. Then Eddy told Hank to unlock the cage, let him (Eddy) out, and tells Hank to get into the cage. Hank does because he wants to try out the elevator and Eddy locks him in the cage.

If you want to find out what else Eddy does to get out and all the other terrible things he does, get this book at your local library.

June 1st & 2nd is free fishing weekend
Frankfort, KY. - Families can take a free test drive of fishing fun during the first weekend of June.
Kentucky celebrates free fishing weekend across the state June 1-2. It’s been an annual event since at least 1992.
Moms, dads, grandparents, extended family and out-of-state visitors all can sample Kentucky’s fishing opportunities without having to buy a license or permit during this weekend. Size and creel limits on the number of fish that angles may keep still apply, however. Anglers may keep trout without possessing a trout permit during free fishing weekend.
With special events across the state planned for Saturday, June 1, most families can find fishing opportunities just a short drive away. A number of events are geared toward kids under the age of 16. Several include a free hot dog lunch, bait and loaner fishing equipment for anglers.

Families wanting the fun to last the entire weekend should consider a state park stay - Kentucky has a number of parks situated at prime fishing lakes. Find out more online at: parks.ky.gov.
The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources also stocks 39 community lakes across the state as part of its Fishing in Neighborhoods (FINs) program. Most of these lakes received a stocking of channel catfish this month. To find the nearest lake, go online to fw.ky.gov then click onto the FINs logo on the right hand side of the page.

surgical sense ► karl schulstad, m.d.

Appendectomy

An appendectomy is surgery to remove the appendix. The appendix is a small, finger-shaped organ that comes out from the first part of the large intestine. It becomes necessary to remove it when it becomes swollen (inflamed) or infected. An appendix that has a hole in it (perforated) can leak and infect the entire abdomen, which can be life threatening.

► Most often, the first symptom is pain around the belly button, which may be mild at first and then becomes sharp and severe. The pain often moves into the right lower abdomen. Other symptoms may include diarrhea, constipation, fever, reduced appetite, and nausea/vomiting.

► During an appendectomy, general anesthesia is used. The surgeon makes a small cut in the right lower side of the patient's belly area and removes the appendix. It also can be removed laparoscopically, using small surgical cuts and a camera. If the appendix has broken open or a pocket of infection (abscess) formed, the patient's abdomen will be washed out during surgery to prevent further complications.

► The goal is always to remove an infected appendix before it ruptures. And living without an appendix causes no known health problems.

► Dr. Karl Schulstad performs appendectomies at Harrison Memorial Hospital's operating suites. Patients tend to recover quickly, leaving the hospital in a day or two. Resuming normal activities within 2-4 weeks after leaving the hospital is common with these patients.

If you're considering surgery, talk to Dr. Schulstad. Simply call 859.234.0390 for more information and a consultation.

TRASH TALK
 by: Mr. Recycle Bin & Ms. Pick-Up Litterbug
606-735-9960

Howdy Folks! Did we read the calendar right? Is it already the end of May? We hope by now that our farmers are able to get into their fields as most will be playing 'catch up' for a while. Traditionally, Memorial Day has meant the end to some activities and the beginning of many such as setting tobacco and summer vacations! Because of Memorial Day, this article is being written before the actual holiday. While the farmers are catching up on farming, the ladies at the News office have to 'work ahead' in order to enjoy their much deserved Memorial Day off! Therefore, Monday's work is being completed on Friday, May 24 and we appreciate the opportunity to contribute to the paper and are happy to send our article in a timely manner!

Time is running short for the roll-offs to be in the county. Because of the early deadline for the News, we cannot give the exact locations of the dumpsters, but once the dumpsters are filled at their current locations of Milford, Berlin and Brooksville, they will be moved. Tentative locations for replacements will be Foster and Augusta but please call the Office of Judge Executive Earl Bush at 735-2300 for updated information or our Office of Solid Waste Management at 735-9960. Again, we must emphasize that NO tires be put into these roll-offs! It is amazing how many folks do not want to follow rules! As older adults gather and converse, oftentimes the subject comes up concerning 'the young people of today'. Children tend to follow the example of those around them and if the adults in their lives are consistently bending the rules to the point of breaking them, then it is easy to see why the young people are disrespectful and irresponsible! Of course, peer pressure has a huge influence on kids but that's a whole different debatable subject!

Recently we talked with Mr. David Appelman from the Bracken County Extension Office who asked us to remind our area farmers that the Rinse and Return Program for chemical containers will take place on Thursday, June 20. Labels and lids need to be removed from the rinsed containers and taken to the Brooksville Farm Supply from 8-10 AM and to the Augusta Farm Supply between 1 PM and 2 PM. This program is a means for farmers to properly dispose of dangerous chemical containers while at the same time recycling those containers through the University of Kentucky's program. It does take time to prepare these containers, but it is worth the effort because these containers do pose a health risk. An even worse scenario is for the containers to be burned which smells really badly but would also release not only the toxins from the container itself, but the added contamination of the chemicals!

Another dangerous air pollutant comes from the emissions of lawn mowers and the EPA advises to mow after 6 PM if possible to cut down on these emissions and to use electric or reel type mowers. Fortunately for us we live in an area that does not mandate such measures (yet!), but any measures we can take to preserve our air quality will definitely help to postpone such regulations! We used the reel type mowers as kids and if you really want to keep your kids busy this summer, give them a reel-type mower to use and explain to them it is part of your overall strategy to RECYCLE, REUSE and REDUCE to keep God's earth clean, green and beautiful! Be seen' you – Bin & Bug.

Memorial Day thanks to motor pool and chow halls guys 'n gals, and a U.S. Army captain Memorial Day.

"Heroes take journeys, confront dragons, and discover the treasure of their true selves."
— Carol Lynn Pearson

Traditions. I love 'em, don't you? Thoughtful and solid Americanisms like flag waving on Memorial Day, parade down Main Street, music and fire works to elevate patriotism in us all.

Most of us believe it a privilege to applaud our military men and women, honor with a moment of silence. We visit memorials, lay flowers, shed a tear or two.

This week a reminder: Consider please, the millions of boys and girls who raised their right hands to God and country, went off to serve and came home not wounded warriors, not combat veterans, nor glam jet pilots or helicopter crews flying into hot zones.

But we came home grown men and women who answered the call to serve. My space this week is dedicated to those of us who volunteered to serve, but were never publically declared heroes.

Thank you to ...

- Cooks and servers in chow halls, nurses in hospitals, guys and gals who survived KP.
- Those who labored at the motor pool. Those who kept the lights on and water running clean.
- Military policemen and women, flight line mechanics, supply clerks and computer jockeys (blush).

Millions of us were fortunate to come home not wounded, not traumatized, nor vilified. But our military service better prepared us to be good citizens, access GI Bill opportunity.

We expected no welcome home parade, marching band and mostly got no inquiries about our service from our children either.

Thanks for your part in sustaining the United States as best place in the world to live.

Only in America. Salute!

U.S. ARMY CAPTAIN VOLUNTEERS

Appropriate and perfect, a former U.S. Army Captain volunteered last week to serve our country again. Back to active duty for Mike Krzyzewski. He will coach Team USA at the 2016 Olympics.

Memorial Day weekend was the right time for the announcement. Coach K. a veteran and extraordinary human being is the right man to step forward, for duty.

Two Olympics, 2008 and 2012 were enough, Krzyzewski said after the London Games. But last week he recanted because, it is "the ultimate honor," he said.

That America's winningest college coach will return, reminded me of the first time Krzyzewski came to Kentucky.

When December 20-21, 2013 rolls around, it will be 45 years since he was team captain on a gritty and unbeaten West Point club (6-0) heading into a UKIT championship game against Kentucky in Memorial Coliseum.

The Dan Issel, Mike Pratt & Mike Casey-led Wildcats had expected to play Bradley in the title game, but the night before Army upset the Braves 54-52 on a pair of free throws at the end by Krzyzewski.

In the championship game, Krzyzewski and Jim Oxley gave no quarter and expected none against the Wildcats. For 25-plus minutes Army played Kentucky to a stand-off before UK made its run to an 80-65 win. Afterwards, Army's little known coach kicked in a locker in the Coliseum dressing room. Bob Knight.

Which brings me to ...

IDEAS DEPARTMENT

If tradition holds, when coach K and staff gather Team USA for the 2016 Olympics, the team usually plays a handful of exhibition games around the country.

A game in Kentucky would be wildly popular and add a good piece of money to a USA Olympics committee always soliciting financial support.

So, an exhibition game at Rupp Arena would be a SRO natural.

Too, it could be an opportunity for Dan Issel, Mike Pratt and Larry Steele from the 1968-69 Wildcats to visit Coach K. For old times' sake.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

In a column earlier this month I suggested the clamor of NBA player Jason Collins 'coming out' as first gay in a major sport, was unnecessary. A reader wrote to say I 'missed the point!'

"... it is always a big thing when others come out as it makes our gay kids a little less lonely. ... (This) is a most difficult journey in the highly judgmental world we raise our kids in. ... Little boys and girls playing on sports teams today can feel a little better about who they are because of the courage of Jason Collins. It can turn out well if we allow it to."

COMMENT. I did miss the point.

WORTH REPEATING DEPT.

• Dominique Hawkins earned a double dip of fame last spring – a state championship for Madison and Mr. Basketball title.

John Calipari didn't know of course, but praise he lavished on Dominique Hawkins is the essence of what Kentuckians believe a genuine high school basketball player in Kentucky is.

Paraphrased: "When I watched him lead his team, play with a will to win and fight at the Sweet 16, (how) he made sure he got his teammates involved and was always happy with their success, but when it was time to take over the game – when it was winning time – everyone in the building knew they were going to play through Dominique, which they did, and won."

Last time a native son led his team to a state title, earned Mr. Basketball then signed with Kentucky was Darius Miller. We all know how that turned out. College degree, two Final Fours, an NCAA title and an NBA contract.

PARTING SHOT

Andrew Wiggins limited his signing with Kansas announcement to family and friends. Kansas coach Bill Self was impressed. "You have schools that invest so much time, energy, and money sitting there watching it go down and not have a clue because (network executives) tell (recruits), 'If you tell anybody, we won't have you on TV.'"

"This was just the high school beat writer, family, friends, teammates - perfect. I thought it was very refreshing," Self told the Fort Leavenworth Times.

And so it goes.

Regional Field Day set for Tuesday, June 25

By: David Appelman, CEA
Ag and Natural Resources

The Kentucky Forage and Grassland Council and the Bracken County Extension Service will host a Regional Field Day on the Thom Lawson Farm located on Chaney Road. The program will focus on using warm season grasses for forage production as hay and pasture. After last years' drought, producers need to consider establishing warm season grasses on their farm to utilize in the summer. Warm season grasses grow best in June, July and August when our cool season grass such as fescue, orchardgrass, and bluegrass are not growing. If grazed or harvested at the right stage, it will make good feed for livestock. It is also drought tolerant and since it is native to KY, it has very few diseases or insects that bother it. Along with the aspects of forage production, representatives from the KY Fish and Wildlife Department will be discussing the benefits of warm season grasses to wildlife populations. If you enjoy hunting, or promote hunting on your farm, this is an excellent opportunity to diversify your plantings to encourage birds and small game. Plan now to attend this informative program. The tentative schedule is for an afternoon-evening program with more details to follow in the next few weeks.

The Woodmen of the World Area Manager's Office and Lodge 871 joined together and grilled the meat for the students' lunch at Taylor Elementary on Friday May 17th and provided a full lunch for the teachers and staff.
